1. The amendment filed on February 24, 2010 has been entered.
2. Claims 20-23, 25/20, 26, and 28 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected species, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on January 30, 2006.
3. The specification is objected to as failing to provide proper antecedent basis for the claimed subject matter, such as, “an upper one-half (1/2)” in claim 14. See 37 CFR 1.75(d)(1) and MPEP § 608.01(o). Correction is required.
4. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.
5. Claims 14-19, 24, 25/14, and 27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Shigeru (JP 4-78769 cited by Japanese Patent Office in the IDS in copending Application No. 10720821).

Claim 14

Shigeru teaches a fatigue relieving/preventing apparatus associated with a steering wheel 2 for controlling a vehicle, comprising:

a first section (at a' in FIG. 2, see Appendix hereinafter “App.” that connects to an upper one-half of a peripheral portion of the steering wheel 2; and a rigid, semi-rigid or flexible, or deformable second section (at 1 in FIG. 2, see App.) that connects to and extends from the first section (App.) at the peripheral portion of the steering wheel 2, the second section (App.) extends from the first section (App.) outward at an angle (see angle α in Fig. 4 in App.) to a plane (App.) across a front face of the steering wheel 2, the second section (App.) for providing resting support for at least a portion (e.g., a hand) of a vehicular operator's body when pressure from the portion of the vehicular operator's body on the second section (App.) is less than the pressure for deforming the second section (App.) out of interference with the vehicular operator's ability to operate the steering wheel 2, and deforming out of interference with the vehicular operator's ability to operate the steering wheel 2 when pressure from the portion of the vehicular operator's body on the second section (App.) is equal to or greater than the pressure for deforming the second section (App.) out of interference with the vehicular operator's ability to operate the steering wheel 2. (Shigeru, pp. 2-4 of translation)

Claim 15

The steering wheel 2 includes a steering wheel 2 for controlling at least a nautical vessel, aircraft, or ground transportation vehicle.

Claim 16

The portion of the body supported by the second section includes at least a forearm, wrist, or hand. (Shigeru, abstract)

Claim 17

The first section (App.) extends a length of a predetermined peripheral portion of the steering wheel 2.

Claim 18

The second section (App.) includes at least two second sections (i.e., a first second section and a second second section in App.) that each connected to the first section (App.) at separate locations as seen in FIG. 1.

Claim 19

The first section (App.) is deformable since it is made of a cushion material 8, 9, such as, light weight plastic. (Shigeru, pp. 3 and 4 of translation). On the other hand, “deformable” is a relative term, particularly since virtually anything will be deformed if enough pressure is applied to it. See “flexibility” and “rigidity” in Fredman v. Harris-Hub Co., Inc., 163 USPQ 397 (DC 1969)

Claim 24

Each first section (App.) is formed integral with the steering wheel 2. It is well settled that the term “integral” is sufficiently broad to embrace construction united by such means as fastening and welding. In re Hotte, 177 USPQ 326, 328 (CCPA 1973) and In re Morris, 43 USPQ2d 1753, 1757 (CAFC 1997).

Claim 25/14

Each first section (App.) is detachable from the steering wheel 2. (Shigeru, p. 3 of translation)

Claim 27

The first section (App.) is flexible, rigid, or semi-rigid, or non-deformable. (Shigeru, pp. 3 and 4 of translation. Fredman v. Harris-Hub Co., Inc., supra.

6. Applicant's arguments filed February 24, 2010 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

The previous rejections are withdrawn in view of Applicant's amendments to the claims. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 14-19, 24, 25/14, and 27 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

7. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
